We may gather and retain Personal Information about individuals associated with Canadian Commercial Customers from applications or other forms that you provide to us.

We may gather and retain Company Information about Canadian Commercial Customers from the following sources:

III. How We Share Information

Fifth Third shares Company Information among and between all of its affiliates. You may not opt-out of this sharing.

Fifth Third may share Company Information with non-affiliated third parties and with Vantiv, LLC (“Vantiv”) in order to offer you additional products and services. Fifth Third has an ownership interest in Vantiv. You have the right to opt out of such sharing, as described below in “How to Change Your Privacy Options.”

Fifth Third may also disclose Company Information to non-affiliated third parties for routine business reasons. Fifth Third may also disclose Company Information to non-affiliated third parties in response to a subpoena, warrant, or court order, or as otherwise required or advisable considering applicable law or regulation. You may not opt-out of this sharing. Further, Fifth Third may disclose Company Information to its banking, securities, or other regulators without any prior notification or any other restriction.

As indicated above, Fifth Third may collect Personal Information about individuals – such as business owners or loan guarantors – that Fifth Third receives in connection with providing products or services to a Commercial Customer. Fifth Third will not use or transfer such information for any purpose other than facilitating the commercial transaction for which the information was originally provided, except with the consent of the individual.

Please note that Fifth Third does sell loans and other obligations to third parties for a variety of reasons. Consent of the individual, guarantors or borrowers is not required and notice will not be provided in the event of a sale of any loan or other obligation to a third party.
